ASPHALT INSTITUTE

Asphalt Institute Headquarters

The headquarters of the Asphalt Institute sits on 2.81 acres in the heart of horse country in Lexington, Kentucky. The 17,511 square-foot brick building was designed by architect Chris Chrisman in the shape of the organization's triangular logo.

Erected in 1988, the building houses mixture, rheology and physical properties laboratories along with the library and administrative offices. Each year, hundreds of people from all over the world visit to advance their asphalt knowledge.

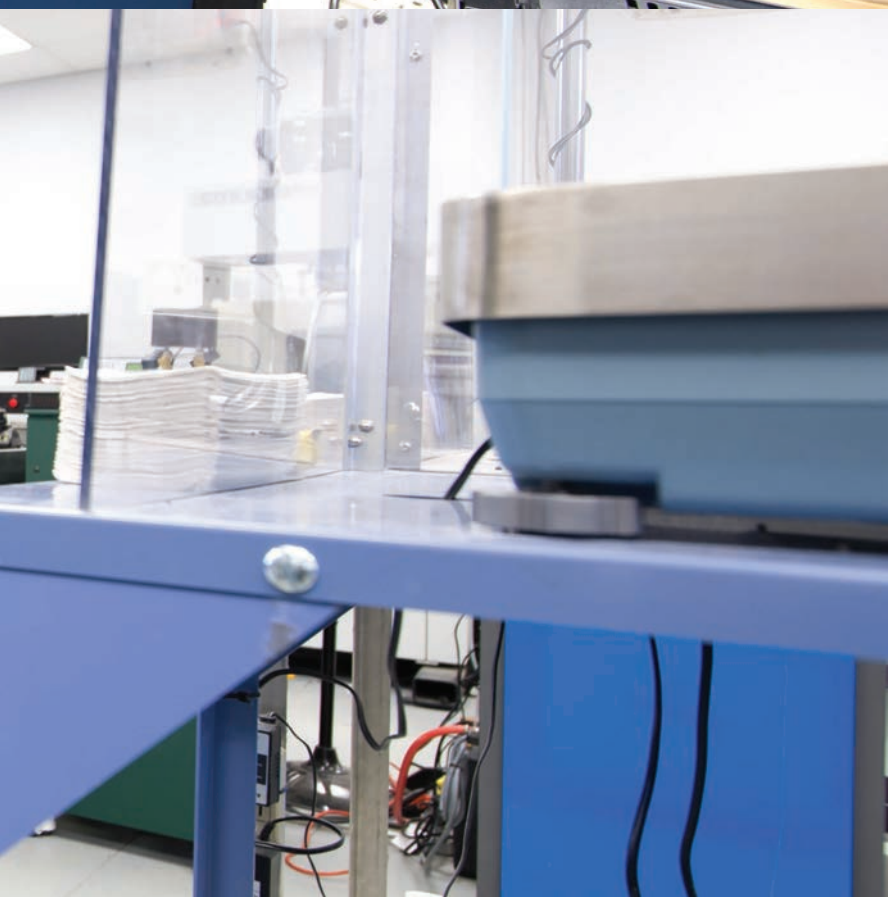

Asphalt Institute Laboratories

The laboratory spans 6,673 square feet of the Asphalt Institute headquarters. Separate rooms house the asphalt mixture lab, asphalt rheology lab and the physical properties lab. AI engineers and lab staff along with many students from around the world use both cutting-edge and tried-and-true equipment. Continuous commercial and governmental research is conducted throughout the facility.

Asphalt Institute Library

This one-of-a-kind, triangular library is the core of the Asphalt Institute headquarters. The 809 square foot room houses 4,600 books and periodicals. The collection began in 1919 and holds relics like the earliest work "Bitumen" published in 1841. The library also serves as a 32-seat seminar classroom for Asphalt Academy courses and special events. Over 150 students from around the globe use the library each year.

Asphalt Institute Conference Room

The conference room at the Asphalt Institute headquarters is a modern 351 square-foot room with a wall of windows overlooking the lake and walking trail. One wall is home to photos of previous Asphalt Institute Presidents. The conference table comfortably seats 8 to 10 people. AI members and staff use the room to conduct business in person and via webinar using the 70-inch monitor throughout the year.
